Post Entry Audit:

It is legally the importer's responsibility to review all Customs declarations made in their name and to ascertain that the declaration properly and completely reflects the import transaction. The burden of accuracy of declarations made at the time of the entry falls on the importer. While MP Custom Brokers, Inc. takes responsibility for properly entering your merchandise based upon information provided to us, it is important that the entry information be reviewed by your staff. Entry summaries are generally prepared at the time of the cargo release and can be reviewed or revised within 10 working days from the date of release. Any discrepancies brought to our attention within this time frame can usually be addressed prior to duty payment. Discrepancies brought to our attention after 10 days of cargo release when the duty has already been paid in, must be address through the Customs protest procedures at the Importer's cost.
